TESTIMONIALS

NASUF is the only user-driven, context-specific association for fleet managers. The relationships built within this conference are less about trying to promote products, but through a brand-agnostic format, encouraging engagement with industry leaders who are experiencing the same challenges and assessing similar solutions.

MICHAEL BERNHARDT, PHD
University of Pennsylvania

NASUF has provided me with networking opportunities and a sense of community. I value the webinars, the annual conference and being part of a group that has common goals, and we can draw on the wisdom and perspective of other members.

MARIAH FUCALORO, CPM
State of Iowa

While I have been a part of the fleet industry for over 10 years, I have not found a conference or association that is as impactful as NASUF. Being a member with NASUF allows you to connect to direct peers in your industry to see what other states/universities are currently tackling in terms of projects and best practices, initiatives, policy development, contract development, etc. It is refreshing to engage in these conversations as you know their experience is very relatable as, they too, are operating within the same operational constructs that you are.

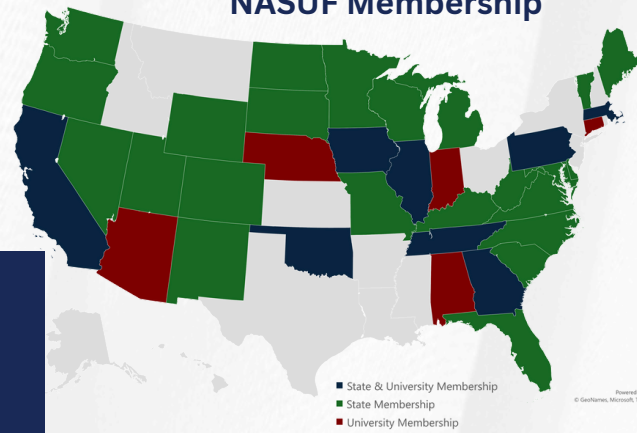

COURTNEY SPEER
State of Washington

Coming into Fleet Management as a rookie, my staff recommended NASUF as the best professional resource for senior leadership in government fleets. NASUF's network is focused on best practices and collaboration in idea sharing. As I have participated in the organization, I have found straight forward and applicable guidance from peers who have been successful in carrying out the same mission I have leading my division.
